PURPOSE: Microbiology. (4:3:4) A general microbiology course that covers the morphology and physiology of microorganisms with particular emphasis on the microbial relationship to disease, pathogenicity, and the immune response.

This course satisfies the requirements for an Associate in Arts and Associate in Science degree as well as requirements for certification in some allied health fields.

OBJECTIVES: By the end of the semester, the successful student should be able to demonstrate that he/she has obtained a basic understanding of microbiology.

TEXTBOOK: Microbiology This text is published by openstax.org The textbook can be downloaded free from www.openstax.org or you can purchase hard copies from the SPC bookstore or Amazon.com The text is optional but highly recommended!

LABORATORY MANUAL: NO LAB MANUAL IS REQUIRED All lab materials will be available for download from Blackboard or provided as a handout in class.

LECTURE MATERIAL: For most lectures, I will be using Powerpoint. The powerpoints will be available a day or two ahead of time on Blackboard. I will be lecturing assuming you have printed the powerpoints for the day and or have them pulled up in front of you.

ATTENDANCE POLICY: Punctual and regular class attendance is expected and required of all students. On the first class day, a seating chart will be made for the laboratory and this will be the student's permanent seat for the remainder of the semester. Class role will be taken each laboratory period from this seating chart, so students must sit in their designated seat or may be counted absent. If a student misses a lab, there will NOT be any makeups allowed. All lab materials are made fresh for that particular day and will not be available any other date.

Whenever absences become excessive and, in the instructor's opinion, minimum course objectives cannot be met, the student will be withdrawn from the course. In addition, a student will be withdrawn from the course when the student has missed every class during any four consecutive class periods excluding holidays. Any student who misses a total of five lab periods will also be administratively withdrawn. Let me repeat. If you miss a total of five labs, you will be withdrawn from the course. This is a lab intensive class and minimum class objectives and proficiency must be met. A student cannot meet the class objectives and proficiency if they miss more than 5 labs. If the student is administratively withdrawn, the student will receive a X on their transcript.

ASSIGNMENT POLICY: Reading assignments are given in the lecture outline. Students are required (and expected) to read the assigned reading and laboratory handouts before coming to class. Reading assignments as well as lecture material will be included on the exams and lab quizzes.

EXAMINATION POLICY: Four major exams plus the final exam will be administered during the semester. The actual exam dates may vary slightly from the course outline and any changes will be announced in advance. Each exam will cover both lecture and laboratory assignments. During exams, all books, backpacks, papers, etc., must be left at the front of the classroom. Purses may be taken to your seat, but must remain closed. Any student caught cheating will receive a "0" on that exam and will be referred to the Dean of Students for disciplinary action.

If an exam is missed, the exam must be made up within seven days of the exam date. If a student misses an exam without prior permission and must make up the exam, a penalty of 10 points will be assessed on the first make up exam. A penalty of 30 points will be assessed on the second make up exam. Under no circumstances will a student be allowed to take more than two make up exams.

Plagiarism and Cheating: Students are expected to do their own work on all projects, quizzes, assignments, examinations, and papers. Failure to comply with this policy will result in an F for the assignment and can result in an F for the course if circumstances warrant.

In addition, during exams, no electronic devices are allowed. This includes calculators, cameras, PDA's etc. If I see it, I will take your exam and you will receive a grade of zero for the exam. Caps and hats are also not allowed during exams. These must be removed and placed under your seat during the exam.

During exams, if you need a new pencil, pen, or something else during the exam, you are NOT allowed to get it out of your purse or backpack. If you need something, the instructor will have pens and pencils to borrow.
